Peerlessly Great Persons

President Kim Il Sung's Authority Stroke the World with Wonder

It was in the 1980s when President Kim Il Sung paid a visit to the (then) Socialist Federal Republic of Yugoslavia.

At that time, over 40 heads of state and government, more than 200 foreign delegations and delegates and many figures of political and public circles from different countries visited Yugoslavia.

However, it was the President who caught the public eye.

The French newspaper Le Monde said that “noteworthy is the presence of President Kim Il Sung, a steadfast defender of the non-aligned movement”, and New York Times of US placed a picture of the President before other state leaders when it carried the news of arrival of the state leaders in Yugoslavia.

Holding events in which a large number of leaders from the East and the West participated, the Yugoslavian leaders had the President at the center. They saw that the President took a seat at the centre of the front line while making all other state leaders stand on stairs.

Hearing the news, a Japanese pressman said that President Kim Il Sung's visit to Yugoslavia caused a big sensation of the world adding that it is a great event, indeed. He said that the President was a great person and a pride of Asia.

Experiencing the President's visit to Yugoslavia, the executive secretary of the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Yugoslav League of Communists said... I had a great impact when I saw many state leaders formed a queue to be received by the respected Comrade President. Heads from big countries were standing near the President. However, the leaders paid no attention to them but found their ways to the President to say hello to him. This made me recognize that the President was the great leader enjoying boundless respect and admiration among the world people.

Indeed, the whole world was fascinated by greatness and authority of the President.

Answer Found in the DPRK

In the mid-20th century, a prominent ethicist in Latin America wrote in a book, in which he reviewed his lifelong research, that true love for man is the practical one. In order to find a representative of such love, he exemplified in biographies of famous persons including those renowned in history and well-known politicians. He wrote that, nevertheless, the “God of love” that he was looking for was nothing but a visionary one that could not exist in the present world forever.

After visiting the DPRK, the president of a publishing house in Ecuador, who had read the book, said that he found the answer in the DPRK and that the ethicist would have found an answer if he had come to the DPRK.

He had already visited the DPRK several times and heard many stories from the ordinary people about noble popular traits of Chairman Kim Jong Il while staying over 250 days. It was in one year when he visited a hospital in the capital of the DPRK.

There he saw a clinical chart, which read as follows.

A common worker in the Tanchon area, hundreds kilometres away from Pyongyang, the capital, fell into a critical state owing to an unexpected accident.

Being informed of it, the Chairman told to bring the worker back to life without fail and saw that a helicopter belonged to an air force unit of the Korean People's Army flew to the area, adding that ours is a society of the workers. When the helicopter was forced down owing to the weather, the Chairman took an emergency measure to fly a large passenger plane that could fly even in unfavourable weather conditions.

Thanks to the Chairman's measure, the worker came to recover.

The president was moved much.

It was unbelievable.

It was a legendary of love that could be found only in a myth.

Calming himself down, the president unfolded the next page of the chart which made him surprised more.

-In order to cure the patient, a medical team was formed including 20 medical workers such as academician, professors and those with doctorate, doctors and nurses.

-72 kinds of high-priced medicines including musk and wide-spectrum antibiotics used in the treatment.

- Nearly 6 liters of blood were transfused.

It was an unbelievable reality, indeed.

Telling his impression about the DPRK, he said...

The DPRK is filled with President Kim Il Sung's and Secretary Kim Jong Il's love for the people. With such great love as a source, the DPRK has built the people-centered socialist society.

Fragrance of Great Person

Great person has his own fragrance peculiar to him.

In history, insight, power of execution, boldness, magnanimity, bravery and resources have been considered as criteria of a great person. But humane fragrance has never been discussed.

Leader of the people should have such fragrance, the expression of all feelings, emotions and aspirations of the people.

Today, the DPRK people confirm the truth in the traits of the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un, identical to President Kim Il Sung and Chairman Kim Jong Il.

Humanity is the fragrance of Kim Jong Un as a great person that attracts the world people.

Warm-heartedness, rich emotion and feelings, thoughtfulness and generosity—these are attractive fragrance peculiar to Kim Jong Un, that moves all people.

Inheriting the noble benevolence of the President and the Chairman, Kim Jong Un sees that top priority is given to interests and convenience of the people in all sectors of building a powerful country and puts it as an important state policy to make the officials repay the confidence and expectation of the people.

Calling the KPA soldiers as his comrade-in-arms, Kim Jong Un repeatedly says he wants to pick even stars from the sky for his people and soldiers.

That's why the people are attracted by Kim Jong Un's affinity when seeing him.

Kim Jong Un's attractive smile gives energy to the people.

The DPRK people keep the beaming image of Kim Jong Un in their minds.

Kim Jong Un's beaming image is attractive, indeed.

If the sun is light and heat that make everything come to life, Kim Jong Un is a great revolutionary, a distinguished politician and a benevolent father who realizes the single-hearted unity with fragrance of affection, the expression of man's emotional feelings.

The DPRK people regard it as the noble morality, a true life to sacrifice themselves for others as an individual's destiny is inseparably linked with that of the collective.

In the DPRK one can be told such countless laudable stories as the ones about those who readily sacrificed their life at the critical moment for the revolutionary comrades, about the one who carried a pupil who has trouble with his leg on her back to school and about the those who became companions of the disabled ex-service persons.

Leading a harmonious life while helping and leading one another is a national trait of the DPRK.

Interview

Beautiful Human Relationships

Warm love and sincerity are a tonic for man like sunlight and air that are indispensable in human life.

That is why the people desire a society in which they live with warm love and sincerity while helping each other.

Visiting the DPRK, foreigners say that they witness reality of the society where beautiful human relationships are established with warm love and sincerity.

At the request of many visitors to the DPRK, we have an interview with the officials of the Korean Association of Social Scientists to give more introductions of the reality of socialist Korea.

Emcee (Chon Sun Gum): Progressive character of a relevant society can be evaluated according to human relationships of the society. What many foreigners sympathized with realities of the DPRK's socialism are the genuine human relationships that every person holds interests of collective, the interests of others dearer than his or her own. I will be grateful if you explain this in detail with examples.

Thak Myong Song: When referring to those people who devote their all for the sake of interests of the society and collective, for prosperity of the country and happiness of the people rather than their own interests, I would like to give an account of many parents who encourage their children to volunteer to difficult and labour-consuming sectors. Though everything was in short supply and situation was hard pressed owing to the protracted sanctions and blockade, the WPK held the Eighth Party Congress to set the grand goal of state building in order to make an epochal advance of socialism and provide the people with happier life. Thousands of young men and women have volunteered to coal and ore mines, farms, construction sites and schools in islets and mountainous villages. Their parents are laudable.

Kim Song Hui: I think that those parents, who sent their children to difficult and labour-consuming fields, cherish warm love and sincerity. They wish their children keep in minds the concern and expectation of the grateful Party and state that defend and take care of their life and unsparingly spend their youthful days as desired by the Party and the state.

Noting that all young people supported the Eighth Party Congress and thousands of young men and women volunteered to work in the difficult and challenging sectors in a few months after the congress, General Secretary Kim Jong Un said that theirs were heroic deeds as same as going to the frontline at wartime and blocking gun muzzles of the enemy pillboxes with their chests.

Emcee: It is not so easy to sacrifice oneself for the sake of others. However, it is a usual and deserved matter in the DPRK to do so even in difficulties.

Mun Sam Song: It is usual in our country to bring up the bereaved children to be those dignified before the country and people. In the period of the Arduous March, some people brought up tens of, even more than hundred bereaved children and took good care of them.

I know a “maiden mother” who brings up several bereaved children. When the country was in difficulties, a worker couple in a county brought over 10 bereaved children from the provincial orphanage including the one who was disabled to sit up and took good care of them. When some people were apprehensive for the couple who were to bring up such a boy with disabilities, the couple told them that they could not burden the state with the bringing up of such a boy.

Emcee: It is a true picture of Juche Korea that cannot be understood or imagined in the individualist society in which one rejects others for the sake of one’s own pleasure, accumulation of fortune and survival, the cold-hearted society where warm love and sincerity cannot be found. In addition, I know many people take good care of aged people who have no caretakers and the honoured disabled soldiers.

Kim Song Hui: Benefits and concern of the Party and the state are big for the honoured disabled soldiers. In the DPRK, there are numbers of people who devote their whole lives for the honoured disabled soldiers valued and given prominence to by the Party and the state. They are always concerned about the honoured disabled soldiers helping them to lead convenient life and continue to make revolution. They are praiseworthy. We have those who become life companions of the honoured disabled soldiers. Their mind is noble and their devotion is unimaginable.

Thak Myong Song: I know a woman whose name is Kim Chun Hwa. She works as an official in a coal mine. As a wife of an honoured disabled soldier with loss of eyesight and movement, Kim brought up her two sons to make them join the army while collecting medical herbs to cure her husband. It was difficult for Kim to live as a wife of an honoured disabled soldier, but she worked earnestly at the mine and devoted herself for improvement of working conditions of the coal miners. Kim had the honour of being a meritorious person of socialist patriotism.

Mun Sam Song: Many people sacrifice their lives for others; a woman teacher saved several pupils from being drowned, many people saved others' lives at the risk of their lives, there were some people who gave their blood and flesh for emergent patients and some gave their conjunctivae to transplant for others. These are loadable deeds, indeed.

Kim Song Hui: Many people regard others' pain as their own and help them with sincerity. Some took to hospital immediately those who collapsed in metro and buses and stay with them till their family members come, and some provided the patients with varieties of tonics and foodstuff for recovery while taking good care of their households. These are common and due deeds of the people in the DPRK.

Emcee: As a matter of fact, it is not so easy to save others by sacrificing oneself for the sake of others for years or scores of years. I want to know the reason why the DPRK people lead a harmonious life even in difficulties while sharing warm love and sincerity.

Mun Sam Song: A big stream has its source and a large tree has its roots. The people make laudable deeds because they were born and live in socialist Korea where the Juche idea, that requires that everything should serve the popular masses, is applied.

Thak Myong Song: Such laudable people are trained and such admirable realities are unfolded by the Workers' Party of Korea whose guiding ideology is the Juche idea. The respected Comrade Kim Jong Un repeatedly tells officials to go closer to the people in difficulty to relieve them of their sufferings and devotes his all to give the people as much delight and happiness as possible.

Kim Song Hui: The Korean people live under the warm love and sincerity as they have the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un who cherishes incomparable love for man and makes devotion for them with sincerity.

Emcee: You are right. Through the picture of the DPRK people, we see the looks of the WPK, the image of the respected Comrade Kim Jong Un who respects and loves the people and holds them dear. Future of the DPRK is bright as it has admirable human relationships. The DPRK is, indeed, a paradise longing for by mankind.

A Conductor Became Famous

In Hun

It was on December 6, 1998.

Ri Jun Mu, the leader of the Uruk Orchestra conducted Song of General Kim Jong Il in a theatre of New York, with feelings of worshipping the great man. As the performance came to an end, the audience gave a big applause and cheers. They came to know for the first time that there was in the world the music pulsating with strength and spirit and making the listeners have solemn feelings.

Obviously, it was the song of praising the great man. Then, who was the hero of this song? Of all the music given in the performance, only the song touched the heartstring of audiences.

After the performance, many people came to Ri to thank him for having conducted the wonderful song. They expressed gratitude for making them know the song.

Encouraged by their gratitude, Ri organized concerts for the song in praise of General Kim Jong Il in Bulgaria and several other countries on significant occasions.

However, it was not easy to hold such performance in the US.

At one time, a conductor gave up his conducting unexpectedly before the performance.

“What’s the matter with him?”

“They say that the conductor is under threat.”

Such news spread very quickly.

At that time a person rushed on the stage and held a baton high. It was Ri, the leader of the orchestra. Every person could read firm will on Ri's face.

The song began to be performed as Ri started conducting.

The song echoed high praising the great man.

No one could notice a gun leveling at Ri at that time.

Ri continued conducting the song. It was Ri's resolution that he would make this song staged throughout the country even by sacrificing himself.

Audiences appreciated the performance with attention. Fortunately, nothing happened during the performance. The hostile forces could not provoke openly as they were fearful of public opinion.

Ri became famous.

Ri had conducted the Russian State Orchestra, that had history of two hundred and scores of years, one of the best 10 orchestras in the world. But he was not famous. Ri had conducted the Radio Orchestra of Bulgaria. Ri was invited at the International Symphony Festival in May 1995 and conducted the Brahms' symphony No.2. But it was the first time for the Uruk Orchestra to become famous.

It was probably because Ri's faith and will and his spirit of longing for justice and peace, in addition to his high ability, touched the people's hearts.

The Uruk Orchestra, specializing in the western music, became famous in the US where different kinds of music prevailed since it began to stage the song praising the great man.

Ri wrote a book Symphony of My Heart in reflection of his ardent feelings of worshiping the great man and printed and issued it in 2012.

“Boundary of Thinking”

Ryom Jong Sil

A US tourist visited Pyongyang, the DPRK.

He boastfully told his friends and colleagues that he was going to the DPRK as it was an enemy state and then came to Pyongyang. The tourist visited several places during his staying in Pyongyang, but he was fearful of meeting the people.

One day, the tourist visited the Monument to Party Founding with his guide.

He was received by a woman guide wearing a bright smile on her roundish face.

“Welcome to the tower!”

The tourist thought... My guide possibly informed her that I am from the US. She is welcoming me. Then she must be an apostle of the God or a hypocrite...

The woman guide pointed at the letters inscribed inside of the ring of the tower.

“Look at the slogan ‘Let us defend independence!’

The Workers’ Party of Korea defends independence of the people. The WPK regards the people as the God.

The WPK struggles against in and out hostile forces that infringe upon the people’s independence.

Independence, peace and friendship are the WPK’s consistent foreign policy and its fundamental standpoint invariably adhered to in the struggle for the cause of global independence.”

Her soft voice put the tourist at rest.

The woman guide continued... It is the WPK's fighting goal to build a peaceful world free from war and it is the steadfast stand of the Party and the government of the Republic to struggle for peace and security of the region and the world."

The tourist could not find any hostility from her eyes.

The woman guide was so generous and understanding because she mastered policies of the WPK.

Look at the tower--a hammer, a sickle and a writing brush, the WPK's mark.

The tourist had not replied even when the woman guide said hello to him, but this time he opened his mouth.

"Today I have heard the voice of the DPRK. Indeed, the DPRK people are strong. They are good-natured people. Seeing this wonderful tower, the one and only monument in the world, looking at your beautiful eyes and hearing your voice, I came to know the fair foreign policy of the WPK. Indeed, it is really impressive.

Out of my feelings to make up for our ancestors' crimes, I will make efforts to promote friendship between the two countries."

The tourist's thinking that had been uneasy and fearful changed at last.

The Monument to Party Founding was the boundary of his thinking.
